Dewitt MacKenzie Interprets Today's News From War Zones

ADVOCATES NLRB KEEP OUT OF CIO AND AFL QUARREL

Lloyd Garrison Thinks Such Attitude May Hasten Peace

The powerful Balkan entente—Romania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey—is meeting today in Belgrade to consider its attitude towards the war between Herr Hitler and the allies, and if we could sit in at the secret sessions we likely should have a much better idea of the trend of this conflict.

There was an earthquake yesterday at Mount Olympus on the lower Balkan peninsula where the Grecian gods were wont to hold their conclaves—and there's the makings of a bigger convulsion in this council of leaders to the north.

Publicly there may be little more than reaffirmation of neutrality. Privately decisions may be taken which will have a strong bearing on the outcome of the European upheaval.

Indeed, so much do the Balkans mean both strategically and as a fruitful source of supplies that it wouldn't be surprising to see this rugged zone again become a cockpit for major military operations of the chief belligerents.

Only this week there was confirmation that the Anglo-French allies had concentrated a powerful army in the Near East to meet any possible German thrust through the Balkans. It could be used against Russia as well, should the occasion arise.

Berlin charged yesterday that the British hoped possibilities for spreading the war would arise at the entente parley. Nazi Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop also declared that neither Germany nor Russia has any intention of carrying the conflict to the Balkans.

Whether the entente will feel reassured by von Ribbentrop's promise would seem very doubtful, especially in view of what is

Shifting of Ice Floes Cause of Rivermen's Fear

BULLETIN

Hayti, Mo., Feb. 2—(AP)—Gripped in a tremendous ice gorge in the Mississippi river, the Federal Barge Lines' towboat Illinois was endangered today by grinding ice, with one of its 10 loaded barges already tilted at a precarious angle.

Equipment and cargo of the Illinois, which operates between St. Louis and Memphis, is valued at approximately $1,000,000.

Co-Pilot William F. Weaver said the end of one barge was "down in the water," and the other end was pushed high into the air by constantly increasing weight of tons upon tons of ice.

"We are not yet greatly disturbed about the remainder of our equipment, but nobody knows what is going to happen when the ice starts breaking up," Weaver said.

He added that the crew of 33 would remain aboard the Illinois in an effort to protect it from damage when the pack starts to move.

New Orleans, Feb. 2—(AP)—Fear of unprecedented damage by shifting ice masses held shipping almost stationary today in the lower Mississippi river after a brief breakup at Helena, Ark., wharves and small boats into kindling.

A pile-up of ice at Friar Point, Miss., estimated at 15 to 21 miles long held several boats in its grasp, while a crew of 29 men and four women restlessly paced the deck of the Federal Barge Line

Mendota Stock Buyer Drops Dead This Morn

Mendota, Feb. 2—John Keller, 220 Burlington ave., aged about 70, a well known Mendota stock buyer, dropped dead at the home of Edwin Schlessinger, three miles north of Mendota, at about 8:30 o'clock this morning. He had gone to the Schlessinger home on business. The body was taken to the Schwartz funeral home, where Coroner Harry S. Lester of Earville will conduct an inquest this afternoon. Funeral arrangements for Mr. Keller, who is survived by his widow, had not been made this afternoon.

Hundreds Perish in Chinese Snowstorms

Shanghai, Feb. 2—(AP)—The frozen bodies of approximately 100 persons, including 80 infants, were picked up in the streets today as a wave of bitter cold brought acute suffering to thousands of Chinese in Shanghai.

Hot rice was distributed by a fleet of trucks operated by the Salvation Army.

Reports from outside the city indicated hundreds had perished as a 24-hour snowstorm swept the low-lying Yangtze valley.

Wild Night

New York, Feb. 2—(AP)—John Barrymore, who never knows when a wifely reconciliation may pop up in his face, had Broadway guessing today on his latest reunion with Elaine Barrie.

The star of "My Dear Children" kissed his wife No. 4 fervently last night between acts of the play, an off-stage action which made the final curtain 25 minutes late.

A farewell kiss? "Like hell!" barked the Great Profile.

A reconciliation kiss?

"How the hell do I know?" he said.

Then they were off to a night club where John spent an hour or more signing autographs and yelling at the performers.

They left there, and said they were going to do some more night spots, but their limousine wound over Manhattan for some time, and finally disappeared in the direction of Long Island, where Barrymore's temporary home is.

President Will Stand on First Budget Request

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 2—(AP)—President Roosevelt told reporters in firm tones today he was standing on his budget and a $900,000,000 agricultural appropriation for the year beginning July 1.

He said the House appropriations committee, which slashed the farm appropriation bill 20 per cent below budget estimates, had made perfectly terrific cuts. The bill is pending in the House.

Volunteering to discuss the agricultural appropriations at a press conference in the library of his home here, Roosevelt said he saw no reason why some excerpts from his budget message should not be read.

He had had some excerpts typed out, and he read them to newsmen.

They said:

"I have carefully checked the individual estimates under these broad categories and I am satisfied that no longer figures can be attained except at the expense of impairing the efficiency with which laws are administered or of working undue hardship upon individuals or economic groups. I refuse to accept the responsibility of adopting either alternative."

Referring to complaints that the labor board now serves as "judge-jury-prosecutor," he suggested that trial examiners be selected by an outside independent federal agency.

Such a system, he testified, would provide "more seasoned men".

He also advocated expansion of the present staff of conciliators of the labor department.

Garrison said regional mediation boards of this type operated successfully under the NRA labor

1939 Death Rate in State Hospitals Low

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2—(AP)—The state department of public welfare reported today that despite the Manteno state hospital typhoid fever epidemic of last summer to which were attributed the deaths of 52 patients, attendants and employees, the hospital death rate for 1939 was unusually low.

Such a system, he testified, would provide "more seasoned men".

He added that the crew of 33 would remain aboard the Illinois in an effort to protect it from damage when the pack starts to move.

Missing Plane, With Five Aboard, Reported Safe; Ran Out of Fuel

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 2—(AP)—Word was received here today that a missing plane with five Americans aboard had made a forced landing at Lagoa Managuera due to a fuel shortage.

The government press department announced it had received a telegram from Porto Alegre that the plane, unreported for two days, was expected to reach that Brazilian port today.

The single-motored plane, without a radio, left Montevideo Friday night. Pilot James W. Allen of Ithaca, N. Y., a commercial aviator on vacation, had planned to stop at Porto Alegre, Brazil, 450 miles from Montevideo.

The passengers were Mrs. Don Wallace of Chicago, writer-photographer and former Dayton, Ohio, resident; Miss Frieda Zylstra of Chicago, photographer and daughter of Charles Zylstra, Iowa Democratic leader; Miss June Sprau of Lake Forest, Ill., a governess, and Seward H. Bowers of Benton Harbor, Mich.

Discovery

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 2—(AP)—For two days telephone operator Joyce Bondy hunted for the source of an annoying and intermittent meowing.

Finally she found it—a cat frozen fast to the roof of the building housing the telephone exchange. She summoned aid and the cat was chopped free and given a home in the office. It apparently suffered no permanent ill effects.

During the year 439 patients died. With the institution's average population of 5,332 as a computation basis, the death rate was 82.3 per thousand. In 1938, a population average of 4,624 and 418 deaths gave a rate of 90.4 deaths per thousand population.

The department recently reported the 1938-39 fiscal year death rate in all state hospitals was the lowest in 30 years with one exception.

Movie Stars Caught in Storm in Mexico; Friends Are Not Worried

Hollywood, Feb. 1—(AP)—Clark Gable and his actress wife, Carole Lombard, apparently got caught in a storm in Baja California and spent the night in their station wagon, but none of their friends here worried about their safety.

"Those Mexican roads south of Ensenada can get awfully muddy in no time at all, with the heavy rains we've been having," said Dean Dorn, M-G-M studio publicity man, "and it's likely their car got stuck."

Mr. and Mrs. Gable, who left here January 26 for a three-week vacation at the Hattie Hamilton rancho 115 miles south of Ensenada, were believed to have set out by motor yesterday to drive to the La Brea Gun Club near Ensenada to meet friends.

Meanwhile Eddie Albert, stage and screen leading man who has been missing since he failed to return from a Mexican cruise several weeks ago, was reported safe at Ensenada.

Ganns Loper, leader of a party which went in search of Albert, telephoned Vernon Wood, Albert's business manager here, that the actor, unaware concern had been held over his absence, had been "browsing around" the southern end of Lower California, had returned by lobster boat to Ensenada, and would return home with Loper soon.

Cedar "Mining" Industry Again Thrives in East

(By The Associated Press)
Cape May, N. J., Feb. 2—Increasing demands for lumber have revived the almost forgotten industry of cedar mining in the misty coastal bogs of South New Jersey and Delaware.

Snorting donkey engines are snaking out of the mire the long-buried trunks of giant cedar trees that geologists have said grew ages ago in mighty forests along parts of the Atlantic coast.

The buried forest has been "probed" for usable timber before—as early as 50 years ago—but lumbermen today say "they didn't even scratch the surface then." They estimate that beneath the roots of the scrub pine and gnarled white oak are "buried cedar trees—acres of them."

The fallen cedars, some estimated to have lived 250 to 300 years, lie there to 15 feet beneath the surface. Over them is a coating of peat and stained cedar water. The mud in which they are buried has preserved them—although they are heavier and darker than cedar obtained from standing trees.

Used for Shingles

Raymond Bozarth, veteran South Jersey woodsman who has 20 men "mining" his swamps, says most of the cedar goes into shingles—but some is "cured" and used for planking.

The "miners" hunt the hidden timber with "prowlers", long iron rods to jab into the soft mud. Once a trunk is located a cable is run beneath it, and the donkey engine pulls it out like a huge, stained tooth. Sawmills operate nearby.

Some trunks measure six feet in diameter. Bozarth says such a trunk yields up to 1,500 board feet worth $150.

What fell the trees still puzzles the lumbermen. Bozarth thinks a tidal wave swept in from the Atlantic, tearing them down countless years ago. He says the buried trunks all point the same direction—inland.

Geologists have voiced the theory that the trees fell naturally because the muddy ground did not afford their roots sufficient grip to withstand storms.

Month-Old Strike at University Remains Unsettled After Meet

Chicago, Feb. 2—(AP)—A four-day conference yesterday between representatives of the University of Illinois, the United Association of Journeyman Plumbers & Steamfitters, and the state department of labor failed to bring a settlement of a month-old strike which has halted work on three university buildings at Urbana.

President Arthur Cutts Willard of the university said no further meetings had been arranged.

Oscar G. Mayer, chairman of the university board of trustees, said the trustees reiterated their previous proposal to meet all union demands except the handling of one of the projects through a contractor.

A school spokesman said the walkout followed the university's decision to use union maintenance men already on its payroll installing pipes in a tunnel under construction instead of awarding the work to a contractor.

Mayer said that T. E. Cunningham, national organizer for the union, took the university's proposal under advisement and indicated he might answer within a few days.

The postoffice department maintained 11,462 star routes in 1939, requiring travel of 180,504,715 miles per year, at 6 cents per mile.

The first Commandant of the United States Marine Corps was Samuel Nicholas in 1775.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

World Day of Prayer is observed by the Christian population throughout the whole world on Friday, Feb. 9. Among the churches of Dixon the call is extended by all the missionary forces of the whole city. The meeting is held this year in St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

Every missionary organization of every Protestant church will have representatives; but why not every member of these organizations, and why not every member of the churches who can come for information, inspiration and fellowship in prayer? Every believer should join his heart and voice with the mighty host around the world supplicating the Heavenly Father for peace, and praise Him for His protection and guidance in all the ways of life.

and tickets enough to fill the church have been issued.

Evangelist Eugene Palmer announced that Sunday night would bring the campaign to a close. The closing service will be crowned with Miss Karna Murry and Byron Weidman being united in marriage. The public is invited to this service at which time the pastor, Rev. Miller, will conduct the wedding. This will be the first wedding ever conducted in the Dixon Gospel Tabernacle.

Mr. Palmer spoke at the country school some five miles north west of Dixon, where Miss Anna Lehmann is the teacher. There were 37 students present. Today he spoke at a country school near Amboy.

Last night the attendance took another spurt at the tabernacle and Rev. Miller made the music feature of the evening.

Mrs. Walter Dunseth and musical folks were at their best.

Mr. Palmer was the speaker and used as his subject "Motives". It was an address out of the ordinary in which he dealt with catch questions of the different ages. He asked and answered the age old question "Where did Cain get his wife?" He said a thing is never wrong until God condemns it. Cain married his sister, and it was wrong. But then came a time in the history of the human race when God condemned such. And now you marry as close as second cousin and it will show up in the children. "God looks on the motive of a man's life. Pharisees in the days of Jesus were the folks that had the real religion, but did not live it. The Sadducees in the days of Jesus had a fake religion and lived it. The Herodians were the boosters for Herod—(Politicians). The catch question in Jesus' day was: Who shall we pay tribute to? Catch question in Bob Ingersol's day was: Which is first, the hen or the egg? Christianity is the crutch which is being used by humanity in trying to cross the stream of life. Religion will soon if you hold it—it becomes sweet when you give it away.

All women of the church are urged to attend the Union service on Ash Wednesday evening at 7:45 at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

The Candle Lighters will meet on Friday afternoon.

The Trustees will meet Friday evening at the manse.

All women of the church are invited to attend the Union observance of the World Day of Prayer on Friday afternoon.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held Feb. 24 at the Kingdon church. Make a special effort to be there at 7:30.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

It is not a merit to tolerate, but rather a crime to be intolerant.

—Shelley.

The responsibility of tolerance lies with those who have the wider vision.

—George Eliot.

We should endeavor to be long-suffering, faithful, and charitable with all. To this small effort let us add one more privilege—namely, silence whenever it can subserve censure.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

I have learned silence from the intolerant, toleration from the kindred; yet strange, I am ungrateful to those teachers.

—Kahlil Gibran.

Tolerance is good for all it is well.

—Burke.

The more we know, the better we forgive;

Whoever feels deeply, feels for all who live.

LINCOLN SCHOOL RECEIVES GIFTS FROM STUDENTS AT COCHITI INDIAN SCHOOL

A short time before Christmas, eighth grade students of the Misses Esther Barton and Cornelia Conibeer at the Lincoln school presented the school with a large Indian drum. The same day the tom-tom arrived from Cochiti, N. M., pupils of the Lincoln school sent a box of Christmas gifts to the 56 students enrolled in the Cochiti Indian school at Pena Blanca, N. M. And only a few days ago, the postman delivered a huge box to the Lincoln school, containing an interesting and colorful assortment of gifts from the grateful young students at Cochiti.

The collection, which was unpacked by members of the student council and now occupies two shelves in the school's permanent exhibit case, includes more than 100 articles, ranging from beadwork, Christmas seals, dolls to pottery, corn necklaces, paintings, and about 40 fine wood blocks. All of the work was done in the village, and some of the pieces are examples of handwork of returned students from the Indian school at Sante Fe.

There are five dolls, colorfully dressed in reds, blues, and orange. One of the dolls is costumed to represent a dancing girl. Many of the beaded articles, including pairs of tiny moccasins, little drums, miniature dolls, and rabbit feet were made by women of the village, and are worn on coat lapels and as zipper pulls. One piece of pottery has been treated to hold water. Several queer-looking "birds" in

Plan Programs for P.T.A.

Programs for the next three meetings of the South Central Parent-Teacher association were planned at a recent meeting of the association board.

At 3:15 P.M. Wednesday, Miss Ballenbach, district director, will address the members at a Founders' Day meeting. A birthday tea will be served at the close of the program, with Mrs. W. O. Moore, Mrs. Norman Dietrich, and Mrs. Frank Forman composing the committee.

Music will be featured at an evening meeting on April 3. Mr. Westgor and Miss Lawson will have charge of a musical program by the students. Mrs. Byron Countryman, Mrs. Diehl, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Matthews, and Mrs. Dietrich are to conduct a food sale planned for tomorrow. Mrs. Bland has been asked to serve as chairman for the Summer Round-Up.

BRIDGE CLUB

St. Valentine's day, an unfailing incentive for party-giving set the motif for both appointments and refreshments when Mrs. E. E. Barrowman entertained her afternoon bridge club yesterday. The guests pieced together Valentine jigsaw puzzles to determine partners for the afternoon's contract play, in which Mrs. Charles Roundy, Mrs. H. R. Gardner, and Mrs. H. M. Edwards were fortunate.

Red and white carnations in a center bouquet, heart-shaped salads and candies, and lace doilies on red valentines were a further reminder of the popular February holiday at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Joe Miller were invited guests. Mrs. Paul Minnigan is to be the next hostess.

KNOT COMFORTER

Ten members of the Dixon Woman's club met at Mrs. B. J. Frazer's home yesterday afternoon to knit a comforter, donated by Mrs. Earl Auman, who was Mrs. Frazer's co-hostess. Today, the comforter was delivered to a needy Dixon family.

Miss Retta Jean Keithley read an invitation for a public card party which Mt. Carroll Wa-Tan-Yans are planning for Monday evening, Feb. 12, for benefit of the Campfire Girls.

Miss Patrick was hostess chairman for last evening. Her assistants included Mrs. Merle Potter and members of her finance committee, Miss Parker, Miss Frances Lally, Miss Helen Nagle, Miss Stauffer, Mrs. Hazel Miller, Miss Lois Fellows, and Miss Leone Ortt.

STAG PARTY

Lyle Myers was instigator of a stag party given last evening in honor of Paul Potts, a recent bridegroom. About 30 guests attended and presented Mr. Potts with a gift for the couple's home.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to sur- render their interests." From the Farewell Address.

ALADDIN UP TO DATE

A long time ago there lived in China, a youth named Aladdin whose family had money so that he didn't have to work for a living, but spent his time running for office on the reform ticket.

Now there spread over the Celestial empire a great smoke caused by the efforts of some of the people who generated friction trying to keep up with their neighbors or get ahead of them. The clouds of smoke were so thick and rose so high they blotted out the sun. The farmers couldn't see how to sell their produce profitably, and laboring men in the towns and villages couldn't see any jobs. People couldn't see how to pay their debts or retire their mortgages, and bankers couldn't see how to keep their doors open. The great Chinese historian and philosopher Ah Long Toot described the situation in his dignified and inimitable way when he said:

"Every one was pretty peevish."

About that time Alladin came into possession of a wonderful lamp which, on being rubbed, would produce a miraculous ghost sometimes called a jann. This jann, being commanded, would do just about anything ordered whether it was wise or not. As Ah Long Toot said shrewdly, possession of the lamp was more desirable and profitable if one knew what to do in the first place. In fact, Long Toot hinted that a man knowing what to do didn't really need the services of the jann.

However, as soon as Alladin obtained this lamp he informed the people of China that he was about to dispel the darkness. Having said this, he called about him his trusty advisers, among whom were Mo-Le, Tug Well, Hu Jon Sun and Fan Pekin.

And Alladin rubbed the lamp. Up from the earth rose a huge and terrible jann which could be seen even in the darkness. It was dark blue in color and bore the shape of an eagle. Standing on its tail, it carried in one claw a cog-wheel and in the other a bundle of lightning.

"I am the slave of the lamp, ready to do your bidding, both I and the other slaves of the lamp. What is your wish?"

"Bring us an NRA," commanded Alladin.

"And crack down on somebody," roared Hu Jon Sun.

Immediately the jann brought an NRA and went abroad in the land, cracking down on some heads with the cogwheel and jabbing other people with his forked lightning.

But the darkness persisted. In fact, it increased.

So the great experiment continued, both Alladin and his advisers conjuring up various spirits. One of these, wearing a white apron and having his hair parted in the middle, roared "Wottele it be, gents?"

Fan Pekin frightened the whole assembly by getting up an NLRB at the suggestion of a senator. The jann had beetling, bushy-black brows and it tore up factory buildings, scared one governor clear into the Supreme Court chambers, threw 500,000 yen at Alladin's head and thundered: "When are you going to pay off?" Then this jann sat down and refused to work.

But the darkness persisted. In fact, both Alladin and his advisers, including a few of the originals and some new ones, were becoming afraid that the smoke pall was permanent. By this time Hu Jon Sun and a few others had abandoned Alladin and were roaring against him and his janns. Things were getting confused. A few fascists were going about like sleep walkers with their hands to the fore. Some communists were digging at the palace foundations.

"This great experiment must continue!" howled the Chinese minister of commerce, Hop Kin. "Aladdin must keep his lamp another four years!" Others in the magic circle said likewise, and they began to chant in unison:

"Third term! Third term! Rah! Rah! Rah!"

And the darkened hills echoed: "Raw! Raw! Raw!" But Aladdin wasn't so sure. At last he rubbed the lamp desparingly and a scholarly jann materialized.

"I've had this lamp more than seven years," said Aladdin, "and the only useful things I have been able to accomplish are those which anybody could have done without the janns, and would have done if placed in my position. What must I do to dispell this darkness so people can see their way about?"

"If you had asked that question seven years ago," answered the jann, "both you and the nation would have been saved many a heartache and many a bitter hour."

"To dispell the darkness you must light the lamp."

And Kakh-Tus Jack, a fan-tan playing, coolie-baiting, water-drinking, evil, old, orthodox high priest, hauled out a joss stick lighter and waved it.

"If you don't light it," he said to Aladdin, "I will!"

MAKING DOCTORS COSTS MONEY

It has always been pretty generally known that it costs more to turn out an acceptable physician and surgeon than it requires to certify any other specialist. Not until the recent publication of an exhaustive survey on medical education costs between 1934 and 1939 have doctors been able to put their fingers on real figures.

The research committee of the American Medical Association discovered that the cost per credit hour for a medical student was $26.96 compared to the next highest, $15.87 for dentistry. The cost for law courses averaged $11.05, for teaching, only $4.06.

Embryo doctors must have expensive equipment with which to practice. They must have the real thing. They can't play with theory. The average cost of education borne by the student himself is calculated at 55.3 per cent of the total. The rest is taken care of by endowments, payment for services, scholarships and gifts.

You might bear this in mind the next time the family doctor sends you a polite bill for services.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

Yesterday Norton tries going down the drain pipe and it crashes to the ground. Miss Wells asks permission to go to the movies, but is trailed to the apartment of a man named Perry.

CHARLES WAKEFIELD
Fortunately for me someone knocked at the door. The Sergeant crossed the room and admitted a man I hadn't seen before.

As he came in he said gravely, "Mr. Kimball tells me I'm wanted by the police."

"What's your name?" The Sergeant regarded him coldly. The man drew off his heavy gloves and rubbed his hands together briskly. "It's damn cold out," he said easily. Then looking at the Sergeant, he said, "The name is Chester Whitefield. I live in the third floor front apartment." There was a faint smile at the corners of his mouth. "I'm an artist, thirty-three years old and," he added plausibly, "I'm not married, thank Heaven."

His smile was obvious now and his tone held too much levity for the Sergeant to digest in comfort. I was finding Mr. Whitefield interesting. He was a short, thin fellow in a blue chinchilla overcoat that covered him from neck to heels. Except for the coat, there wasn't anything to distinguish him from a hundred other men.

"What do you know about this?" the Sergeant asked. Charles Whitefield waved a newspaper under the Sergeant's nose and said, "Only the little that the papers had to offer, but enough to learn that you must be the Sergeant Long of the Homeless Squad."

He bowed politely, but the Sergeant, seeing the twinkle in his eye, flushed. Personally I found the man more refreshing than the other inmates, but the Sergeant looked at him with an accusing eye.

"Where were you last night?" he asked.

And then I wondered if I were mistaken in thinking that behind Mr. Whitefield's nonchalant look there was a wariness. But he answered without hesitation, "In my apartment."

"All evening?"

"Right. I got in about seven and didn't stir out again until this morning." He bent down to brush the snow from his shoes.

"Did you hear anything unusual during the evening, or particularly between eleven and one?"

The man seemed suddenly bored with the questioning. "No," he said and lit a cigarette, looking at Dirck and me with mild interest.

The Sergeant shot out the next question. "Who was with you?"

If the artist hesitated, it was only for an instant. "A girl."

"Who?"

He smiled. "I prefer not to say. A nice girl, though. She didn't murder anyone."

"I'm the one to decide that."

By this time I had scant sympathy for the Sergeant. He got very little out of people because he made them angry right away. Mr. Whitefield faced him now with a stubborn look, apparently determined to say nothing.

With an irritated gesture Sergeant Long walked to the window, gnawing on his cigar. Dirck fumbled in his pockets for his cigarettes, lit one and then said in a casual voice: "I can understand how you see about giving the lady's name, but since she obviously had nothing to do with the murderer, you would be doing no harm in telling it. Besides we've accounted fairly well for the comings and goings of everyone in the house and it might be some help to the Sergeant." He leaned forward earnestly. "You see, she might have seen someone and we could do a little verifying of time."

Whistling In The Dark

The Sergeant turned away from the window. "What time did she leave your apartment?"

The artist answered him suddenly. "I really forgot, possibly a little after midnight."

"It must have been later than that," Dirck said quietly. "Her room-mate got home at two past twelve and she hadn't come in yet."

Charles Whitefield's jaw tensed and he looked at Dirck swiftly. For a minute I didn't quite grasp what he meant, and I think the Sergeant was dumbfounded. Then it dawned on me that Adrienne Wells had been up in his apartment. I wondered how Dirck knew about it or whether he waswhistling it.

"I guess she did leave a little later," Whitefield admitted. "You see I was giving her a drawing lesson and the time passed very quickly."

"Have you been seeing much of Miss Wells?" the Sergeant inquired.

"Oh, a couple of evenings a week," he said carelessly.

"And did you know Joan Kent?"

He shook his head. "Only by sight."

"And you have no information you can give me about last night?"

The man shook his head, and the Sergeant seemed to lose interest. He told him he could go, but not to leave the house without permission.

After Mr. Whitefield left the Sergeant turned on Dirck furiously. "You didn't tell me she was up there."

"I didn't know for sure," Dirck replied. "It was just a hunch."

"Wait until I get hold of that young lady," the Sergeant said with a grim smile. "Out dancing was she?"

Then I remembered the person who was crouching on the staircase.

"Who could that have been on the stairs last night?" I asked them. "Mrs. Evans was out until midnight. The MacDonald boy was on Long Island, and Mr. Whitefield is the only other person on the third floor."

The Sergeant favored me with a kindly look. "Well turn you into an investigator, son. If Adrienne Wells was so busy taking a drawing lesson, she wouldn't have been wandering around, so who was it?"

He picked up his hat. "I'm going up to see Whitefield again. He must be deaf if he didn't hear all that commotion."

And then Dirck and I went back to my apartment.

Canada's 1939 population has been estimated at 11,200,000.

Information on Making Reports On Income Taxes

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue for the first Illinois district, announced today through Deputy Collector William L. Doyle of this city, information relating to the filing of income tax returns. Collector Doyle has his offices in the Warner building at 107 Galena avenue.

In view of the fact that state, city and county employees are subject to income tax under the laws of 1939, it is important that local tax payers be given every possible assistance in preparing their returns. In view of this fact Deputy Collector Doyle has arranged an itinerary for the Dixon district. Excepting the dates at Mt. Morris when Deputy Doyle will be at the Kable Brothers plant, and at his Dixon office, he will be available from 9 to 4:30 at the postoffices in the following towns:

Dixon office, Feb. 6 to 10 inclusive, and March 12 to 15 inclusive.

At Mt. Morris, Feb. 13 and 14.

At Oregon, Feb. 15 and 16.

At Polo, Feb. 19.

At Paw Paw, Feb. 20.

At Amboy, Feb. 21.

At Rochelle, Feb. 22 and 23.

It is quite important that tax payers desiring assistance in preparing their returns should have all of the information relating to income and expenses in such form as to facilitate quick handling. To expedite the work in the Dixon office, Deputy Doyle has provided the following valuable information:

Income Tax In A Nutshell

WHO? Every single person or married person not living with husband or wife who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and generally, husband and wife living together, who had an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more or an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more, must file returns. If in doubt, obtain form and printed instructions from collector of internal revenue.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1940.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions accompanying Forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four percent normal deduction on the amount of net income in excess of the personal exemption credit for dependents, earned-income credit, and interest on obligations of the United States and obligations of instrumentalities of the United States. Surtax on surtax on net income in excess of $4,000.

Income Tax Don'ts

DON'T prepare your return without first studying the instructions accompanying the form.

DON'T procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.

DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

DON'T fail to fill in all items and schedules required by the return.

DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to a complete audit. This will save unnecessary expense and annoyance to both you and the government.

DOES? Assemble the data you will need Saturday whether starved or disease is responsible.

DOES? The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, meeting in Miami, declared that "any candidate for public office who seeks and accepts support of the CIO and places himself in bondage to its leaders (John L. Lewis) has received the 'kiss of death' and is doomed to certain defeat."

DOES? David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers, said at New York Lewis' prophecy that Roosevelt would go down to "ignominious defeat" if renominated "no way represents labor's attitude toward the President."

Biological survey officials doubt that starvation is the reason for the scattered reports of dying ducks along the river and Director Lynch has directed state game wardens to discourage feeding "because it tends to change the migratory habits of the ducks."

Dead and living ducks still linger along the Illinois river were collected this week by federal game specialists and taken to the biological survey's station in Wisconsin for laboratory tests to determine mortality causes.

"Believe heavy expenditures for grain distribution not justified unless findings indicate starvation is the primary cause of mortality," D. H. Janzen, biological survey regional director, said in a telegram to Director Lynch.

"Past experience of similar situations has proven that most birds die as result of lead poisoning, old body shot wounds, infectious diseases and parasitism."

Dead and living ducks still linger along the Illinois river were collected this week by federal game specialists and taken to the biological survey's station in Wisconsin for laboratory tests to determine mortality causes.

William Green, president of the federation, when asked to amplify the "kiss of death" statement, smiled and said the council was "merely referring to some historical events that have taken place".

POLITICS

AP Reports Gossip Among Politicians in Washington

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

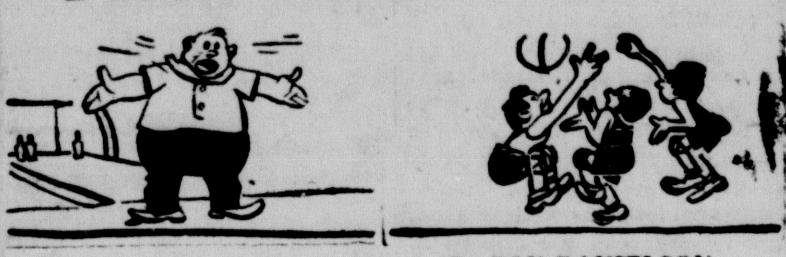

Washington, Feb. 2—(AP)—Early arrivals from the west for Monday's meeting of the Democratic national committee reported today that strong sentiment existed in their states for renomination of President Roosevelt.

Lynn Brodrick, Kansas national committeeman, said: "Kansas is strong for Roosevelt and I feel the same way."

Ed A. Carroll, national committeeman for Washington state, expressed belief his state would favor a third term if it were voting today, while Charles J. Vogel, new member from North Dakota, asserted:

"My state is very pro-Roosevelt, but I have no statement further

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON.

ADDING TO THE FIRE

The Dixon-Sterling game of tonight is probably fraught with too much frenzy now, but just in case you want to work yourself into a real lather, here's what the Sterling scribes have to say about tonight's impending affair: "Dixon is expecting somewhat of a Roman holiday on Friday night when Sterling invades the Dixon school. Word comes that Dixon is out to show the fans that the Sterling victory here was a mistake. The general sentiment at Dixon is to the effect that the Sterling boys can't take it under pressure and that Sterling players are rather on the timid order. This is not the case. Sterling players are rather on the timid order. This is not the case. Sterling can play and will be in there fighting to win on Friday night."

LINTO LOPS 'EM

In the three-round wind up of the bouts at Sterling's Coliseum last night Linto Guerreri of Rock Falls defeated Bill Cowan of Crystal Lake. In the semi-wind up Pete Hantz, 1939 national Golden Gloves champion, knocked out Virgil McKinnis of Elgin in the first minute of the second round.

FISTIC FOLLOW-UP

Jim Trees, DeKalb coach who met a fist in the eye following a Bureau county tournament game, is reported to have grinned amiably and agreed that he would have a good excuse in the final game should anyone complain of a blind official. Down in the locker room after the game, someone mentioned that Rutherford, the Wyandot boy who flashed the revolving right, is bothered with poor eyesight. "At three feet, he's not bad," Jim cracked.

FIRST TIME

It is reported that Mrs. George Bugg, mother of eager Ardell of the Dixon high school team, will see her son in action for the first time tonight.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE AT ROCHELLE

In the commercial league game at Rochelle last night the AA Shoes defeated Creston, 32 to 24. Milton and Andrews each scored seven points for the winners and Myrtle counted eight for the losers. Del Monte defeated Morgan Dyes, 45 to 18, in the nightcap with Draper totaling 14 points for the winners and Tigan 12 for the losers.

SUBSTITUTES

The Soda Grill cagers will substitute for the Knacks in the engagement at Freeport Tuesday night.

CRIBBAGE CHATTER

In one of the closest series of the winter season, the city hall cribbage team emerged the winner of a contest with Franklin Grove last evening. Captain Dave Kelly's team managed to rally after a bad start and piled up 17 games against 15 which Captain George Schultz's quartet assembled in the early stages of the contest.

MAINTAINS HIGH GAME

Ken Detweller of the James Billiards bowling team still holds the highest individual game rolled in league competition at the new Dixon Recreation alleys. Ken counted 263 about two weeks ago and rolled the first 600-series all in the same evening. Frank Daschbach reports that the new recreation center "is still packing 'em in."

BACK TO SCHOOL

Louie Bevilacqua, Dixon athlete, will return to the University of Notre Dame tomorrow morning to resume his studies and sports career.

Millrose Games to Be Battle of Track Elite in Saturday Event

New York, Feb. 2—(AP)—Any outdoor American 3-4 mile record aspiring trackman facing the starter at the Millrose games Saturday who doesn't own a championship of some sort will be about as welcome as a spectator who doesn't own a ticket.

The big meet that opens the Madison Square Garden season—is the 33rd renewal of the event—has an entry list studded with champions of all descriptions. A finer field would be hard to imagine.

The Wanamaker Mile, of course, is the feature, if there could be such a thing in this all-star list of events. Entered are Glenn Cunningham, six-time winner and holder of the world indoor mile mark; Charles Fenske, the Princeton mile winner; Louis Zamperini, N. C. A. A. and I. C.-A. champion; Gene Venzeke, former winner; Blaine Rideout, National A. A. U. outdoor 1,500-meter champion, and Les MacMitchell, I. C.-A. cross-country winner.

But the shorter races also boast their share of titlists. World sprint record co-holders Ben Johnson and Herbert Thompson must face such goers as Eulace Peacock, 100-meter record holder, and Kenneth Clapp, I. C.-A. indoor champ, among others.

Mid-Term Exams May Effect Big Ten Standings

Chicago, Feb. 2—(AP)—All the precincts haven't been heard from but the outcome of mid-term examinations may have a profound effect on the Big Ten basketball race.

Deficient grades have removed three players each from the squads at Illinois and Wisconsin, including a regular on each team. A few more blows like that and the title prospects of several teams would be damaged.

The Badgers lost Bob Schwartz of Madison, varsity forward who ranks seventh in individual scoring with 41 points, just 10 behind teammate Gene Englund, league-leading scorer. Englund survived the scholastic tests in good shape. Other Wisconsin players lost in the classroom were Bob Sims, second string guard and Bob Nelson, reserve forward. Another player, Lester Sander, sophomore center, has left school.

Illinois lost Bob Richmond, regular guard; Bob O'Neill, second string center and Rex Sherman, sophomore forward. All failed to make the scholastic grade.

Wisconsin is tied for seventh in the conference race with one victory in four games and Illinois has split four games for a fourth place tie.

These two teams and three others move into action tomorrow night. Wisconsin engages Michigan State at East Lansing and Illinois invades South Bend to play Notre Dame. Chicago plays host to Loyola. Indiana meets DePaul university in the Chicago Coliseum, and Ohio State plays Butler at Indianapolis.

•CONFERENCE GAMES

If the ground hog came out of his winter hibernation today it probably wasn't to see his shadow but to attend the Dixon-Sterling basketball game tonight. If he doesn't show up at the door with a ducat, he'll be about the only one in the community who doesn't show interest. For tonight's the night and the impending contest is uppermost in the minds of the citizenry—young and old.

The traditional battle, expected to have all the color and excitement of the battle at Waterloo, will make baseball history with both teams making a frenzied bid for conference fame. Any predictor attempting to give the nod of victory to one team or the other would find his noggin first bobbing one way then another.

At one moment it seems the Dukes may win—at another it appears that Sterling should get the nod. There can be no prediction other than it's going to be a whopper of a game. Either team expressing the least confidence is likely to be shaken from wish-thinking after five minutes of play. Sterling's pre-holiday game cannot be counted as a measuring stick for tonight's encounter.

Coach Brandau of Sterling, satisfied with the results of the Mendota game last week end, has rapped his boys across the knuckles in an attempt to destroy in prima donna exhibitions and solo playing. The results may leave the Sterling lineup intact or send in a fresh assortment.

Coach Brandau of Sterling, satisfied with the results of the Mendota game last week end, has rapped his boys across the knuckles in an attempt to destroy in prima donna exhibitions and solo playing. The results may leave the Sterling lineup intact or send in a fresh assortment.

In the Dukes' camp Coach Sharpe is banking on the efforts of such regular starters as Bugg, Witzie, Kelly, Wienman and Shultz.

Lightweight Game at 7:15
The lightweight game, also packed with excitement, will tilt the curtain on the big show. The preliminary event is scheduled for 7:15.

While Dixon is engaged in a struggle here, two other conference games will figure prominently in the Dukes' position in the standings of the conference. DeKalb, close on the heels of Dixon, engages Mendota on the Barb's home court in a game which offers real excitement. The DeKalbers, anxious to repeat their 49 to 39 victory over Mendota, and even more anxious to defend their conference position, have been drilling diligently for the game against the improved Mendota five. The hosts are mindful of the slap which the Mendota team gave to Sterling last week end, and hope their fate will not be the same.

At Princeton the Belvidere team, cut to shreds by a mid-season slump, will be engaged in a life-and-death struggle with the Tigers who have yet to win a conference game. Although the Princeton hosts have a goose-egg in the winning column of the league, the boys are not to be treated lightly. They have had a long and tough schedule which has produced some high scoring threats which may say day—or night—produce the victory of which the Tigers are starved.

Belvidere, on the other hand, is a team which has made it tough for opponents, but not quite tough enough. This has disturbed the Boone county fans who are demanding a pair of wins in the light and heavyweight divisions of the league tonight.

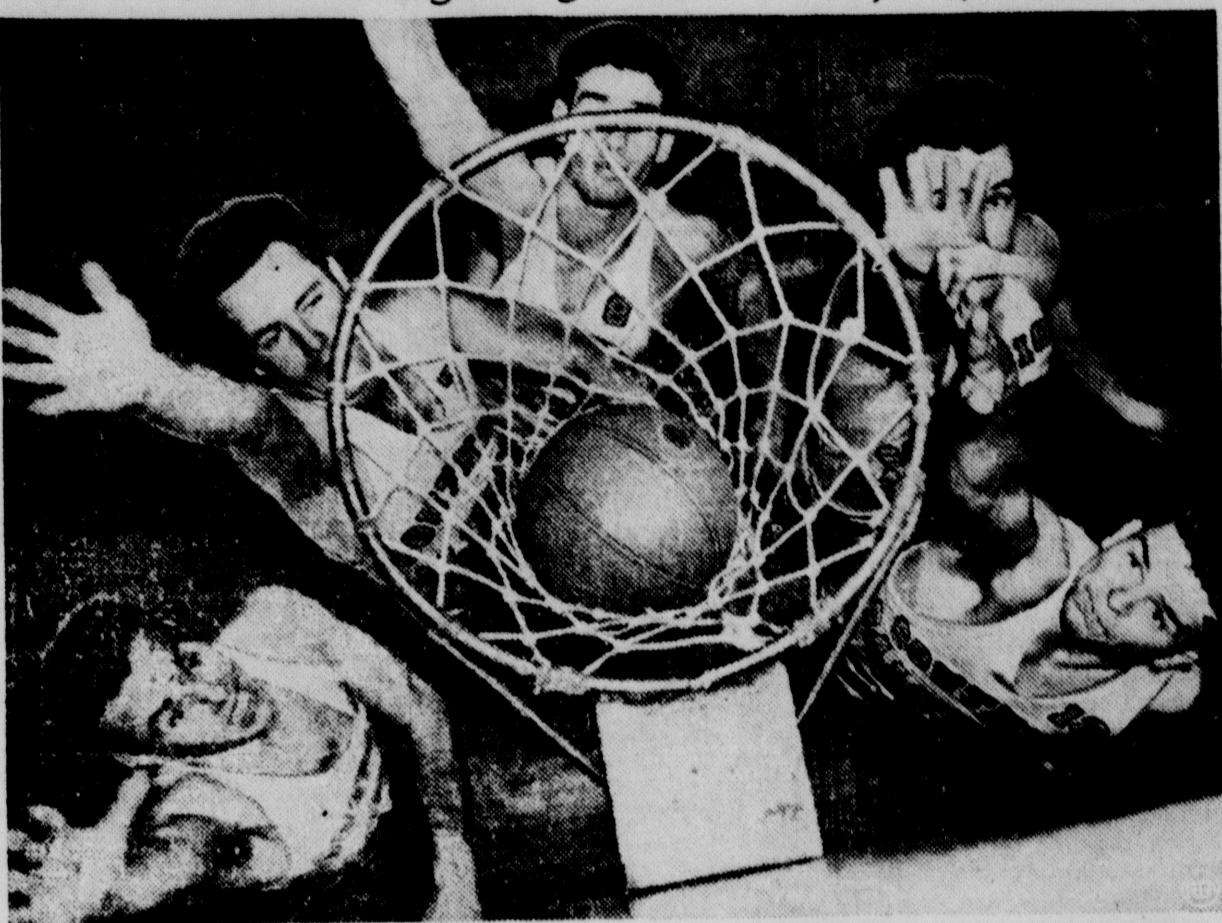

The Route 72 loop will find Stillman Valley playing at Ashton, Byron at Forreston and Leaf River at Monroe Center. In the standings of the loop, according to a check up with Coach Ralph McLeod of Stillman Valley, his team and Monroe Center are now knotted for first place in the standings. Close on their heels is the Leaf River aggregation with whom the Monroe Center team plays tonight.

In the Rock River conference there are three major battles tonight. Oregon and Rochelle, tied for the lead in the circuit, hope to crack that knot tonight as the Hawks go to Morrison and the Hubs journey to Amboy. Amboy should offer little resistance to the Rochelle invasion, but Morrison may upset the Oregon apes to spill the Hawks out of the conference position.

Franklin Grove, the recent conference tournament winner, is idle tonight with the Franklin Grove "B" team playing host to the Harmon basketeers.

In other games tonight Lee goes to Caledonia, LaMolle to Kirkland to Kingston. In the other conference battle towboat Illinois, locked in a huge 23-mile gorge near Caruthersville, Mo.

Captain C. R. Cutting of Memphis, Tenn., master of the ice-bound Illinois, said several of the boat's tow of 10 barges were damaged by pounding ice blocks

but its cargo of tractors, farm implements, steel and grain were written away, but many of them were none too confident of success.

Discussion of "racketeering" in labor unions developed when Rep. Fries (D-Ill) asserted that a "walking delegate" in charge of workers on a rural electrification administration project in Illinois had refused employment to bona fide union workers in the state and was "importing workers whom he charged $1 a day for work permits."

"If it lets go in a sudden break, those blocks of ice will pound us to pieces," he said. "We'd have to go with the ice."

Hayes Withdraws
Governorship's Race

Decatur, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Edward A. Hayes announced today he was withdrawing as a Republican candidate for governor and would enter the race for attorney general.

The former commander of the American Legion in Illinois said his action was prompted by a desire for party harmony.

He added that supporters of both Richard J. Lyons and Dwight H. Green, two leading gubernatorial candidates, had promised him their support for attorney general.

"My friends have told me there was a place for a downstate man on the attorney general ballot, and I believe my service to the party, coupled with my 25-year experience as an attorney, qualify me for the nomination," Hayes said.

There are five others who have announced themselves for attorney general: George F. Barrett of Chicago; Oscar F. Carlstrom of Toledo, Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, Edward T. O'Connor of Peoria and Clinton Searle of Rock Island.

Three Itinerants
Live in Hollow Tree

Shawneetown, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A weather prophet stalking groundhogs north of this city today might have been momentarily surprised to see a man, instead of a rodent, emerge from the cavity.

The tree dwellers, A. C. Dobbs and his two sons, John and James, who described themselves as itinerants, converted the hollow tree into a bedroom which is heated by a stove fashioned out of an old carbide can and some pipe. The outdoors is their living room, warmed by a brisk fire at their front and only door.

Dobbs said they would move on when the weather warms up a bit," that their present abode had been snug even during the recent cold weather.

Today's sunshine promised a six weeks' extension of their lease.

More than 225 houses were

The disturbances continued with Saitonia, Farissa and Verria feeling a shock this morning.

Landon Heads Lincoln Day Speakers in State

New Tactics—

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for president in 1936, will head the G. O. P. speaking forces in Illinois for the celebration of the 131st anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth.

Other speakers at Lincoln Day programs include Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, Congressman Carl Plumley of Vermont, and many state G. O. P. leaders.

Landon will appear on the same program with Postmaster General James A. Farley in Springfield on Sunday, Feb. 11.

Representative Hoffman (R-Mich.), who had been criticized by Thomas yesterday as having a "vicious, anti-labor slant," challenged the witness to support that allegation with instances from Hoffman's treatment of employees in his own law office.

When Thomas conceded he knew nothing about that subject, Hoffman said that none of his employees ever lost a single day's pay as a result of absence due to illness or vacations and that his pay scale compared favorably with that of other employers in the same town.

In reference to Thomas' assertion that Hoffman was a corporation "mouthpiece" the legislators declared that in 40 years of law practice "I have never had a retainer from a corporation."

During remarks by Rep. Wood (D-Mo) depicting the conflict between the C. I. O. and A. F. of L., Thomas interposed that the C. I. O. was willing to join with the A. F. of L. "provided William Green is willing to take us all."

While Roosevelt obviously felt those paragraphs applied with particular force to the reductions made in the agricultural appropriation, he told reporters he had nothing to add to what already had been said.

He made no mention of a possibility of a veto should Congress enact a bill carrying substantially less than the budget recommended for government agricultural activities.

Farm-belt congressmen have been talking of trying to persuade the House to restore at least a part of the appropriations which were whittled away, but many of them were none too confident of success.

There were intimations that the President, like some of these legislators, were hopeful the Senate would do something about restoring the cuts.

The community fire truck, with Firemen Dave Kelly and Joe Miller in charge, made a run to the Hank brother's farm on the County Home road last night at 11 o'clock. This morning at 7:15, the department was summoned to the Jay Atkins property at 1002 Peoria avenue where sparks from a chimney started a fire on the roof. The flames were extinguished with very slight damage which was covered by insurance.

Early Rochelle Publisher Wrote Familiar Song

"And NOW we are A-ged and GRAY, Mag-GIE . . . The TRI-als of LIFE nearly DONE . . . Let us SING of the DAYS that are GONE Mag-GIE . . . When YOU and I were YOUNG."

Thousands of persons the nation over have raised their voices (in unison and individually), until the rafters resounded to the tune of "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," but few people, even in Ogle county, know that Prof. James A. Butterfield, an early newspaper publisher of Rochelle, was author of the popular song.

Leading Musician

Professor Butterfield, who purchased "The Lane Leader" from John R. Howlett, publisher of the first newspaper in Lane, (now Rochelle), in 1861, was recognized as one of the leading musicians of the country. He headed the Chicago delegation at Gilmore's "Peace Jubilee," and was the author of several songs.

"The Lane Leader," oldest of all newspaper publications in the village of Lane, was first published by Mr. Howlett in October, 1858. The Leader, like several of its successors, was short-lived, however.

The Leader was followed by "The Lane Patriot" in 1861. "The Lane Register" made its first appearance in 1863, and when the city's name was changed to "Rochelle" in 1865, it became known as "The Rochelle Register." This paper was later purchased by Mr. Paddock.

Early Papers

Names, beginning dates and publishers of later newspapers included the following: The Rochelle Independent, 1872, E. L. Derby; The Rochelle Herald, 1880;

Granville W. Morris; The Rochelle Register, 1894; George W. Dicus; The Rochelle Independent, 1896; Lux Brothers; The Rochelle Register, 1907; Emery I. Neff; The Rochelle Independent, 1917; W. E. Hemingway; The Rochelle Independent, 1918; Walter H. Hohenadel; The Rochelle News, 1921; Lux Brothers and Heath; combined Rochelle Register and Rochelle Independent, published under the name, "Rochelle Independent Register," 1927; John Millar; combined Rochelle News and Rochelle Independent Register, published under the name, "Rochelle News," Dec. 31, 1928; Rochelle Newspapers, Inc.; Rochelle Home Journal, 1928; Check Staff; Northern Illinois Democrat, 1932; John Tilton, published soon afterward as "The Rochelle Leader."

Made Enemies

Howlett, whose out-spoken methods made many enemies, sold his paper to Professor Butterfield in 1861. Butterfield continued the publication for about a year under the name of "The Lane Patriot." After his publication was suspended in 1862, his materials were stored for a year before they were purchased by E. L. Otis.

Otis published "The Lane Register" until the city's name was changed from "Lane" to "Rochelle," in 1865, when the newspaper became "The Rochelle Register." His was a well-known publication of that period, and Otis was its editor for more than 20 years.

Later, Mr. Paddock purchased "The Rochelle Register," and sold it in 1891 to George W. Dicus. In 1907, Mr. Dicus sold the paper to Emery I. Neff, who was its publisher from 1907 to 1926.

Dean of Newsmen

In 1881, Granville White Morris and his son, Howard A. Morris, began publication of "The Rochelle Herald." After the father's death, the son continued publication until 1892 or 1933. Mr. Morris was known as the dean of Ogle county newsmen.

"The Rochelle News" traces its beginning back to 1896, when F. E. Lux and C. A. Lux began publication of "The Rochelle Independent," which had no connection with the previous publication dating back to 1872. C. A. Lux later sold his interest to William C. Lux, Jr.

During the World war, in 1917, changes in personnel caused them to sell "The Rochelle Independent" to W. E. Hemingway of the "Tri-County Press." In 1918, Mr. Hemingway re-sold to Walter H. Hohenadel, who published under the same name until 1925.

In 1921, "The Rochelle News" began publication by Lux Brothers and Heath. Members of the firm included F. E. Lux, W. C. Lux, Jr., and Elmer Heath.

Sold to Syndicate

"The Rochelle Register," owned by Emery I. Neff, and "The Rochelle Independent," owned by Walter H. Hohenadel, were purchased in 1926 and 1927, respectively, by the Home News Publishing company, a syndicate. The combined papers were published by John Millar as "The Rochelle Independent-Register."

In 1928, the Home News Publishing company sold its "Rochelle Independent-Register" to Lux Brothers, who began publication under the name of "Rochelle Newspapers, Inc." combined the newly-acquired publication with their own "Rochelle News," and continued under the latter name. Today, the company is still actively engaged in its publication.

In November, 1928, Check Staff established "The Rochelle Home Journal," which was sold on Feb. 9, 1932, to John Tilton. Winnifred Knight, the vice oracle, completed her unexpected term. Others having served as oracle are:

Lizzie Fordham, 1917; Nellie Remsburg, 1918-19; Myrtle Dagan, 1920; Marie Glafka, 1921-22; Winifred Knight, 1923; and Marie Glafka, 1924-25. Martha Epperson has headed the camp since 1926.

When the camp was first organized, no man could become a member unless he was affiliated with the order of Modern Woodmen of America. Today, any man may apply for membership.

Early meetings were held at the Woodman hall, and later at the homes of the members. Beginning in May, 1919, meetings were conducted at the hall on the same night the Woodmen met, in order to make a reduction in rent. This plan proved unsuccessful, however, and the hall was rented as originally. Since 1931, the homes have again become the camp's meeting place, as there is no hall available in Walnut.

DIRKSEN NOT TRUE

Washington—(AP)—Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.) asserted yesterday during House discussion of the farm problem that Congress, by legislation, had been "kicking up the level of industrial prices" and at the same time was trying without much success to make agriculture "reach up to that level."

He said that he was not certain but that a cost-of-production program or a domestic allotment plan would be better than the current crop control-soil conservation program.

Map shows where the 23 vessels verified as destroyed have gone down. Germany claims to have sunk many more. Figures show flying time.

Manager Boys' School Thinks Fence Unneeded

Chicago, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The escape problem at the Illinois state training school for boys can be solved without the use of a fence ordered by state officials, Capt. W. T. Harmon, manager of the institution at St. Charles, said yesterday.

In a speech before the 39th annual convention of the County and Probate Judges of Illinois, Harmon asserted the solution could be found in the transfer of about 50 of the older boys to the proposed new unit at Sheridan.

Harmon said it would require the services of 23 men to guard and patrol the fence, adding that the expense thus incurred would amount to $20,000 annually "to guard 600 boys, more than 500 of whom never attempt to run away."

The fence would surround the main grounds, he said, but about 100 boys, including the "escape group," reside in cottages outside this area.

Proposed changes in election laws were outlined before the convention by Sangamon County Judge Harlington Wood of Springfield, a member of the commission appointed by Gov. Horner to study the problem.

The commission's report, which was presented to the last session of the general assembly, provides for holding all general elections on the same day in November in even-numbered years and all local elections on the same day in April in odd-numbered years. It would consolidate five elections—village, town, school, drainage district and park.

State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, in an address, said the judiciary had one of the most difficult and responsible jobs in public service.

"The judge's power, for good and evil reaches into the life of every citizen," he said. "The judge, in my opinion, may be a minister of heaven or hell, according to his character or capacity."

Three Men, Two Girls Indicted for Burglary

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A drugstore holdup frustrated by Proprietor Ray Altire, who was wounded in returning the gunfire of his attackers, brought grand jury indictments for three men and two women.

Indicted were Leo Reno, junior T. Purvis and Loren Frazier, all of New Castle, Ind., and Katherine Todd Reno and Frances Todd Baker, both of Harrisburg. The charges were burglary and assault to murder and rob.

Reno, Frazier, Purvis and LeRoy Baldwin of Harrisburg also were indicted yesterday on a charge of armed robbery.

The 1937 world production of gold amounted to 36,266 fine ounces; the Philippine Islands produced 694,900 fine ounces of this total.

Chamberlain Is Given Go Ahead Signal by House

London, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Royal Air Force is prepared to reply in kind to large scale German bombing of Great Britain expected in the spring, authoritative sources asserted today.

Speedy, fighting planes with machine guns in the tails to permit fire in any direction were described as Britain's means of meeting the anticipated attack by a new German bomber built for speedy performance at high altitudes.

"There is evidence the Germans are pressing construction of fast, long range bombers," an aviation source said. He described the new type as a twin-motored Junkers bomber, JU-88, carrying a crew of three or four and three guns, one in the nose and two in the fuselage.

"With this weapon in his hands, it seems unlikely the enemy will capitulate without attempting a desperate aerial attack on Britain's vital targets," the source declared.

He said Germany probably would use the new bomber in "considerable numbers".

Chamberlain Wins

Prime Minister Chamberlain was given a "go ahead" signal by the House of Commons last night to conduct the war under his own program as an opposition demand for a special economic coordinator in the war cabinet was voted down.

The house rejected, 185 to 90, a Laborite motion for the addition of a minister to plan "the resources of the nation for successful prosecution of the war."

Limited leaves for the British expeditionary force, cancelled Jan. 14, have been resumed and the first group of soldiers will return from the front tomorrow, the war office reported.

Twenty survivors from the 5,625-ton torpedoed Greek steamer Eleni Statathos reached the Irish shore yesterday and told of having to throw the bodies of 13 frozen comrades from the open boats in which the survivors spent four days in the icy Atlantic.

The crew escaped in two boats as their vessel went down last Sunday. The seamen said a German submarine fired the torpedo.

"A heavy sea was running and the weather was bitter cold," said Michael Ryan of County Limerick, Ireland, one of the survivors.

"Our hands and feet swelled up so much—we were tired of rowing it was awful. It was a bad dream. We were always cold, we were always tired. . . . We were always hungry."

"The worst of all came Wednesday. There were the dead in the boat—thirteen Greeks. They had frozen to death. We threw them overboard."

"Later the second boat capsized," Ryan continued. "We had the larger boat, and we got the men out of the water. Early today we saw the Irish coast but we were so tired we couldn't row any more. It was terrible."

"A motorboat finally came out—and here I am."
